John 4:24

Follow the Cloud

By David Grubb

“Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us,” - Hebrews 12:1

Run with the cloud, not with the crowd. In the Old Testament, God gave His people a cloud of glory called the Shekinah glory. If they followed the cloud they were victorious, but most of the crowd went another way. Jesus said the way of salvation is narrow, and the way of destruction is broad, and many are on it. In Hebrews, God gives us many examples of those who walked by faith and found victory. Those witnesses are a cloud of testimony to be our guides. Most of the crowd will go another way. Let them go. Let's follow the cloud, not the crowd.

Near the Summit
By David A. Sargent

Had he chosen to continue climbing, Ben-Yehuda (age 24) would have been the youngest Israeli ever to make it to the summit of Mt. Everest. Instead, he chose to help his friend....

Nadav Ben-Yehuda was maneuvering through the last 1,000 meters from Mount Everest’s Camp IV to its summit on May 19 when he saw a body sprawled motionlessly on the icy ridges. He was shocked to find that it was his friend from the base camp, Aydin Irmak, a 46-year-old American of Turkish origin. Even though he was only 250 meters from reaching the world’s highest peak, Ben-Yehuda said his decision to help his friend was “automatic.”

Ben-Yehuda told The Associated Press that Irmak “was in a dire state and without basic equipment.” Irmak later revealed that on his return from the summit, he had collapsed in the extreme conditions, without an oxygen supply, a flashlight and a backpack.

Ben-Yehuda lifted Irmak over his shoulders and carried his friend alongside his Sherpa guide for about 8 hours back down to Camp IV. Both Ben-Yehuda and Irmak suffered burns on their faces from the negative 40-degree Fahrenheit temperatures. But, they are both alive!

Despite growing tensions between their native countries of Israel and Turkey, Ben-Yehuda and Irmak continue to think of one another as friends, even brothers.

“I believe I almost died,” said Irmak. “Nadav saved my life.”

This meaningful account of rescue and relationship illustrates another demonstration of the same that can have direct application in our own lives.

When WE were lost on the slopes of sin, unable to save our- selves, and destined to die, Jesus came from the summit of all summits –heaven itself– to save us.

“Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.” - Philippians 2:5-8

Even though our sins made us enemies with God, Jesus rescued us. In order to save us, Jesus had to give His own life as payment for our sins. “For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die. But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.” Romans 5:6-8
